

Scott Fry

Scott Fry is the Director of Workforce Development for the MidAmerica Industrial Park and Executive Director for the MidAmerica STEM Alliance. Scott has served the interests of MidAmerica companies for over 20 years by working to ensure that resources and programs are in place to support the development of a quality workforce. Previous to his current role, Scott worked for OSU Institute of Technology focused on customized training for business and industry and has seven years of experience in the glass manufacturing sector where he worked his way through college and as an Electronics Specialist after graduation. Scott holds a B.S. in Electrical and Electronics Technology from Northeastern State University and an M.S. from Oklahoma State University in Occupational and Adult education.